

The City of Los Altos announces a Park & Community Center Design Collaboration

Partnering with the American Institute of Architects Santa Clara Valley (AIASCV), the City of Los Altos will host a day-long, collaborative design event. Enlisting the creative design input of volunteer AIASCV members, the conceptual designs that are developed will be used to further guide and inspire future design work for the City's redevelopment of the Hillview Park and Community Center.

When: Saturday, October 25, 2014
Design Teams: 8:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Public Presentation & Discussion: 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

Where: Hillview Community Center - Multipurpose Room
97 Hillview Avenue, Los Altos, CA 94022

This event is planned as part of the City of Los Altos Community Center Conceptual Design & Civic Center Master Plan Update, led by Anderson Brulé Architects.

Participating design professionals will work in teams and be provided with community background, site analysis and programmatic requirements for their design efforts.

In the afternoon, the design teams will present their concepts to the public for feedback and discussion.
